Chairman's Chat

Pete Jones

We had a busy run up to Christmas, with a well-attended talk about the heathland, our first attempt at the Christmas Tree Festival (the decorations reflected some of the projects we have been involved in), and the well-attended Boxing Day walk. See elsewhere in this newsletter for reports on these.

Looking forward, we have our AGM, followed by a talk about the Basingstoke Canal, on 10th March. Please note this year it is at Tringham Hall, as our usual venue the Sports Pavilion is unavailable due to rebuilding.

If any of you would like to come and join the committee, you would be most welcome. We are a friendly group. We meet once every two months, with much business transacted by emails. Ideally we hope for new ideas about events or projects we can undertake for the village. Note that there is not too much work involved!

Looking further forward, we are planning to hold another talk (subject to be decided), and we will as usual be at the Fete.

If you have friends in the village, please ask if they are members of WEVS. It's far easier to recruit new members from personal contact.

Annual General Meeting: Tuesday 10 March

The Annual General Meeting will be held on Tuesday 10 March 2026 at 7.30pm in Tringham Hall, Benner Lane, West End, GU24 9JP.

The Minutes of the 2025 AGM are available to view or download on the WEVS website, www.wevs.org.uk under the 'About' tab, along with the Chairman's report, the Accounts for 2024, and the presentation launching the History Project.

The AGM will be followed by a talk about the Basingstoke Canal by Roger Cansdale of the Basingstoke Canal Society – see page 4 for details.

After the talk there will be drinks and nibbles to which all attendees are invited.

From The Editor

Guy Consterdine

Welcome to the first WEVS Newsletter of 2026, and the 208th in all.

As most members will know, since September last year WEVS has produced a new type of publication. In addition to our usual 12-page Newsletters in print and digital formats which go to all members three times a year, there are now irregular digital-only Bulletins which are emailed to all members for whom we have email addresses - the majority.

The Bulletins are intended to treble our direct communication with members, to provide rapid information on forthcoming new events (like the Basingstoke Canal talk and AGM date, announced in the January Bulletin) or other time-critical information, and to give updates and reminders on activities and relevant external events (the November Bulletin ran to eight pages).

The Bulletins are digital-only, and sent by email, because of speed and, most importantly, to avoid over-burdening our hardworking volunteer distributors of the printed Newsletters. It is not practical to ask our distributors to hand-deliver publications nearly every month.

To our distributors: thank you so much. Your work three times a year is vital!

Did you receive Bulletins 1-3?

If, as a WEVS member, you didn't receive the first three bulletins, it means we don't have your email address. Do send it to us by emailing:

membershipwevs@gmail.com and stating your name, address and email address. The latter will only be used for sending you bulletins and WEVS material.

To show what the bulletins have covered so far, the panel gives a list of the contents.

I'd be glad to hear from anyone with suggestions for items to include in a future newsletter or bulletin. Contact me through comms@wevs.org.uk. In this newsletter all articles with no author's byline are written by me.

Talk About the Basingstoke Canal: 10 March

We are fortunate to have the Basingstoke Canal within easy reach of West End. It's a beautiful rural corridor through parts of Surrey and Hampshire, whose 32-mile towpath is ideal for walking or cycling, and boat trips are offered from Woking and Odiham.

Roger Cansdale will give WEVS a talk about the canal immediately following the AGM business (see page 2) on 10 March at 7.30 in Tringham Hall, Benner Lane. Roger is one of the leading lights of the Basingstoke Canal Society. He was a Director of the Society for many years, is an author, a former Editor of the Society's quarterly magazine, and an experienced public speaker.

Restoration working party at Odiham, 1984

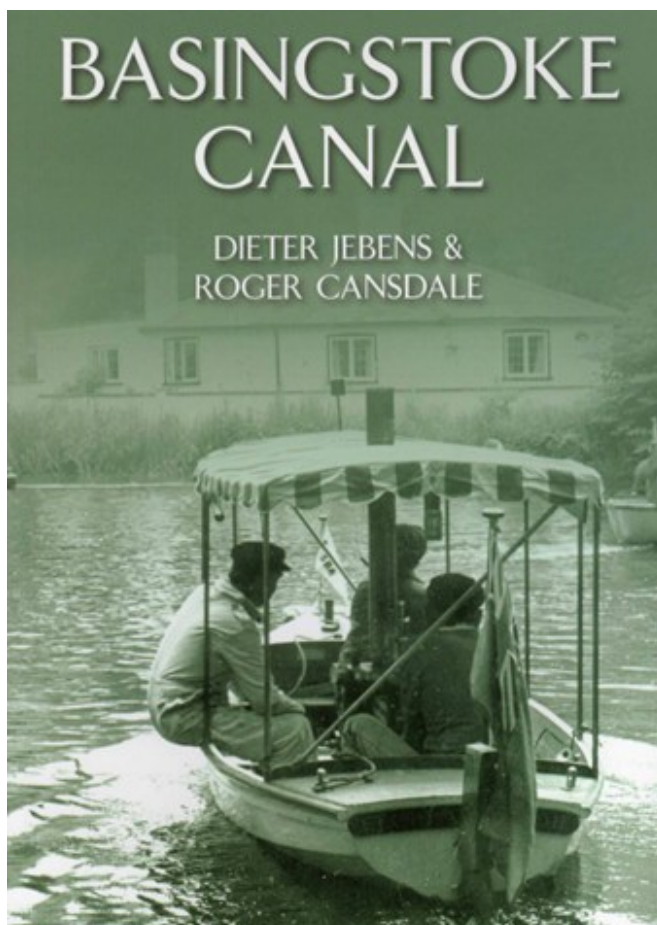

Restoring Scotland Bridge lock, West Byfleet, 1984

Roger will discuss the history of the canal, its restoration and current situation, and its value as a local amenity.

The canal was opened in 1794. Rarely profitable, it closed in 1932 and limited traffic at the eastern end finished in 1949. It lay derelict for years. In 1966 a group of enthusiasts formed what is now known as the Basingstoke Canal Society. They began an ambitious programme to restore the canal to full working order. This was completed in 1991. Since then the Society has been active in maintaining the canal. Roger will tell us about all this in fascinating detail.

Everyone is welcome to the talk. Entry will be free for WEVS members, and £4 (per household) for non-members which will include membership of WEVS.

Another date for your diary is 18 April when the Basingstoke Canal Society will be celebrating 60 years of their existence. It will be a Gala Day by the canal at Boundary Road recreation field, Woking, and will include the naming ceremony for a new all-electric trip boat, Kitty 2, which will operate trips from Woking's wharf by The Lightbox. Details will soon be on the Basingstoke Canal Society's website.

Our Amazing Heathlands Nicola Buckland

Editor: In September, Michael Jones, Education Officer of Thames Basin Heaths Partnership, gave a stimulating talk to WEVS about the rare and precious lowland heathlands in Surrey and neighbouring counties. The evening was reported in our digital-only Bulletin 2 dated November 2025. Following this up, Michael's colleague Nicola Buckland, Communications Officer of Thames Basin Heaths Partnership, has written the following article for this Newsletter.

For many of us, the Thames Basin Heaths are part of our local community and we talk about them with a certain level of confidence. But to new visitors, the landscape may have an unfamiliar feel to it! For the Thames Basin Heaths Partnership team connecting visitors with the heaths is a truly important aim. We want to share with visitors just how rare and fragile lowland heath is and showcase the amazing variety of wildlife that call it home. But where to start? Visitors are drawn to heathland for many different reasons. Fresh air and exercise, to walk the dog, or to spot wildlife. Forming a connection with a landscape takes time and is a rather subjective thing!

It can help to visualise the things about heathland that bring you joy. For some the heaths are simply aesthetically pleasing. But zone in and picture some of the charismatic heathland birds, reptiles and insects during summer, with the glorious soundtrack of bird song, bees buzzing and lizards scuttling, and the heath comes to life! Combined with the vibrant pinks and purples of the heather, it's a feast for the senses. Inquisitive minds begin to ask 'what is that?' and over time, with familiarisation, there comes a level of expectation. Where are the Dartford Warblers that I expect to see perched atop the gorse? Will I get to the end of this path and find a cloud of Silver-studded Blue butterflies fluttering over the heather? Of course, other intriguing species are harder to spot, such as the carnivorous Sundew plant, tucked away amongst the mosses in the wet heath areas. Those children fortunate enough to join Education Officer Michael Jones for one of his outdoor sessions return to school full of excitement and stories of exploring their local heath! This is where memories are made and a respect and passion for nature is nurtured. By connecting with the heaths we see their vulnerability and feel the urge to protect them. How can visitors do this? Simply by giving wildlife the respectful distance it deserves. Keeping ourselves and our canine companions on paths during ground-nesting bird season means birds such as the majestic Nightjar can raise their young without disturbance. Reptiles can bask peacefully, storing up energy from the summer warmth. And rare plants can thrive.

The photograph: Greyspot Hill is on the horizon. It's a low eminence but affords an excellent panorama over West End Common. It's many years since one could cycle or walk there for the view, before the Army fence was erected. Today one might see red deer.

Sadly, the devastating consequences of wildfire can undo this peace and harmony. Talking about wildfire prevention with visitors is a vital part of our work and we'd love you to help us spread the #BeWildfireAware message.

The Ag & Hort Show

Mandy Bye

The Ag & Hort* Committee is delighted to look back on our 2025 Show where we proudly celebrated our 121st show year where the weather behaved itself for once!

We were thrilled to see so many people through the gates, enjoying the stalls, snapping up some lovely gifts, and soaking up the entertainment. The dog show and dog agility kept tails wagging, Morris Dancers kept us on our toes and Staines Lammas Band provided a wonderful soundtrack to the day while John Medhurst's magnificent Suffolk Punch horse, Bowler, proved once again that dray rides never go out of fashion.

We were especially pleased to receive 824 show entries, our highest number for ten years and the second-highest on record (clearly you've all been busy!). The Barn Dance in the evening was another huge success, with plenty of energetic dancing and happy feet, so much so that the band has already been booked again for this year.

Sadly, we weren't able to hold our annual ploughing match in September but fingers crossed we'll be back in action this coming September. Full details will be shared on our website and Facebook page nearer the time.

Our AGM and first committee meeting of the year took place at the West End Social Club on Tuesday 20 January 2026, where plans are already well underway for our 122nd show to be held on Saturday 12 September 2026. Event details and timings will be available on our website with entry forms and schedules ready to download later in the year at www.wewdahs.org. Printed schedules will also be on sale and sent out to members in May. If you'd like to become a member please contact Mandy Bye (07740 472247 or sevenbyes@hotmail.com) or download a membership form and send it to David Pearce. Excellent value for just £3.00. You'll receive a schedule packed with Show information, enjoy reduced entry fees for certain classes and gain access to the marquee.

We'll be making a few updates to some of our classes in February to keep up with current trends and technology while still holding on to many much loved favourites such as jars of marmalade and jelly, patio flower containers and plenty more (because some traditions are just too good to lose).

Ag & Hort Show 2025: inside the WEVS marquee

Our next committee meeting will be on Tuesday 3 March at the West End Social Club (side room). If you fancy joining the committee or would like to help out on Show day, please give Mandy Bye a call as new faces, fresh ideas and extra pairs of hands are always welcome!

We can't wait to see you all on Saturday 12 September 2026 so please mark your calendars now!

West End Village Fete, Saturday 13 June

This year's Fete will be on 13 June on the Recreation Ground. The Parade will start at 12.30 and the Fete opening will be at 13.00. Among the entertainments will be arena displays, many local stalls, crockery smash, Punch & Judy, licenced bar, children's roundabouts, Dog Show, bouncy castle, plant sale, and much else. WEVS will have a marquee there as in previous years. There is still time to book stalls

2025 Fete

Despite the cold wintery weather we have endured since the start of the year you should by now have noticed signs that Spring is not far off. It won't be long before lengthening days and a small rise in temperature will trigger stronger growth in the bulbs and shrubs in your gardens and around the village. In fact, there have been some signs of this in my garden for several weeks and this has been very welcome.

Eranthis

Plants and shrubs that bloom in winter are well worth planting as they bring cheer to even the most dismal of days. Without fail our hamamelis (witch hazel) starts flowering on or around the shortest day and by mid-January it is putting on a spectacular display which lasts well into February. The fragrant blossom of the chimonanthus (winter sweet) had been particularly good this year until it was severely nipped by the cold spell. Nearer to ground level, the iris unguicularis (Algerian iris) and lovely yellow eranthis (winter aconite) have persevered, and although the snowdrops have been a little late to put in an appearance it won't be long before they join the party.

If you have the time, it is well worth making a trip to one of the estates that feature magnificent drifts of snowdrops. One such venue is Welford Park, near Newbury in Berkshire, where you can marvel at the sight of literally millions of snowdrop blooms in the surrounding woodlands. There is still time to make the journey there but if you are too late, a visit to RHS Wisley in a few weeks' time to see the banks of crocuses is well worth while. If you aren't inclined to brave the congested roads it won't be long before the crocus bulbs around the village will be flowering and these will be followed by the masses of daffodils planted by WEVS in the years before Covid.

Iris Unguicularis

If you enjoy gardening, why not come along to one of the Village Garden Club meetings? These are held in Tringham Hall, Benner Lane on the fourth Tuesday of the month, starting about 7:45pm. Non-members are welcome and can come along, to see whether it's of interest, for a modest fee of £2.00, which includes refreshments. We have a varied and interesting selection of talks by outside experts. The next meetings are outlined in the accompanying table.

Medhurst Pond and the Family Connection

It was good to see the village pond given formal recognition of its previously informal name, Medhurst Pond, through the new sign erected last summer. The sign also reminds us that the large open green space in which the pond lies is known as the 'recreation ground' or 'rec', not a 'park'.

*John Medhurst and sign, with icy pond behind.
10 January 2026*

I asked John Medhurst about the connection between his family and the pond. John, born in West End, has been a Parish Councillor since 1992, serving as Chairman at times, and he runs his own business W J Medhurst (Developments) Ltd, which focuses on foul water drainage and installation of sewage treatment plants and also supplying aggregates and concrete to local builders.

The Medhurst connection to the pond goes back to John's grandfather Horace Medhurst. Around 1930 Horace purchased Bolting House Farm which was in Streets Heath along the section between Benner Lane and what is now Old Acre.

Horace farmed land on which today Barnsford Crescent, Jenner Drive, Malthouse Lane, Boldinghouse Lane and part of Commonfields now stand. He owned approximately 6 acres of farm land, but most of the land he farmed was rented. He was a champion ploughman for many years in the area with his Shire horses.

The name Bolting House is interesting. In cereal harvesting 'bolting' was a traditional term (little used now) for the sieving process to separate the grain from the chaff, or the bran from the flour. In 1963 when the developer W. Deakin of Woking purchased the farm and the surrounding land and was building houses on land that Horace Medhurst had farmed from Bolting House, Deakin named two of the new roads after the local farms, hence Malthouse Lane and, after Medhurst's farm but reworking (mis-spelling?) the name, Boldinghouse Lane.

There used to be two ponds near Bolting House Farm on the heathland north of Streets Heath (now incorporated into the recreation ground). The western pond became filled in, leaving the present pond for Horace's farm horses and other animals to drink from. It thus became known as Medhurst Pond. It was deepened about 30 years ago and made a fraction bigger.

Wards of Egham would come to the farm in October every year to thrash the corn in the farmyard. Horace would then deliver the corn to Benhams Mill in Chobham, which was near Chobham Fire Station, using the Shire horses and wagon. That continued until around 1960 when Horace sold off the horses and closed the farm.

Horace ran a farm shop on his premises, which continued to the mid 1960s, and a number of the older West Enders can still remember going there to buy vegetables and fruit, served by "Mr Medhurst" himself.

Medhurst Pond, 13 September 2025. After the very hot dry summer the water level was so low that the ducks had a beach to waddle on

Horace Medhurst and his Shire horses, c1930

Horace had two sons, Ron and Ralph. Ralph was John's father, but he was not involved with the farm, instead working for local builders and Surrey County Council. However, Ron became the West End village postman for 40 years until he retired. John on the other hand, as a young boy loved being on the farm, especially when binders were cutting the corn or the thresher was working or other exciting things were happening. By the age of 11 John was driving horses, and he learned to drive the late Joe Daborn's grey Ferguson tractors at Joe's place at The Laurels, Fairfield Lane.

One hard winter in the 1960s (probably 1963) Medhurst Pond's surface was ice at least six inches thick, and John recalls driving his motor hoe and trailer over the pond and doing wheelies, or pulling six to eight children in the trailer (probably not recommended!)

local shows and ploughing matches. John purchased Shire horses around 1988 and appeared at local fetes and shows. Then in 1990 John had the opportunity to carry out the PR work for Fullers Brewery based in Chiswick, famous for its London Pride Ale. He looked after the Fullers horses as well for the following 30 years.

Sadly in 2019 Fullers sold off the breweries to Asahi UK Ltd after 160 years of brewing. Now John only does around 16 PR jobs instead of in the region of 35 a year with the horses for Fuller, Smith and Turner PLC which is now only a pub company, with around 350 pubs.

For many years John has carried on his late grandfather's tradition, and many residents who enjoy West End fetes or Shows will be familiar with John giving rides on a dray pulled by his Shire horses, or sometimes Suffolk Punches which are a very rare breed.

The Boxing Day Walk

Chris Anthony

The weather gods smiled upon us on Boxing Day and although the clouds looked threatening, the rain held off and the traditional WEVS Boxing Day walk could go ahead unimpeded. The main party of walkers assembled outside Tringham Hall mid-morning and after a short briefing by the organisers, set off towards Brentmoor Heath. They were joined by a secondary group on the open space opposite the Hare & Hounds to swell the numbers to an impressive 74, plus a handful of canine chums.

The route of the walk took us up to New England Hill, over the top of the Heath, past the Bronze Age burial mounds and down the wide gravel track to the junction with Brentmoor Road. This marked the half way stage and a number of walkers returned to the village via the road. The rest of the party continued along to Priests Lane where the traditional Boxing Day clay pigeon shoot provided some additional entertainment. And then it was back towards the Heath and the finishing point outside the Hare & Hounds.

Because we had not had any rain for about a week, the going was comparatively dry with no large puddles to negotiate and no slip hazards. The walk lasted a mere 1 ½ hours, perfect timing for those who fancied some refreshments before returning home. It is a great way to get some fresh air and gentle exercise to work off some of the excesses of Christmas Day. If you didn't join us this time, why not come along next Christmas?

Boxing Day walkers outside Tringham Hall

Christmas Tree Festival

WEVS and the Garden Club both participated in the Christmas Tree Festival in Holy Trinity Church on 13th & 14th December. The Festival was a sociable and thought-inducing exhibition with about 40 beautifully decorated and lit trees lined along the sides of the nave and in the chancel, each decorated by a local organisation.

The WEVS tree (left) reflected some of our main activities, such as commissioning Lucas the Stag on Fellow Green roundabout (there were many stags leaping about our Christmas tree!), our History Project, and our footpath walks.

The Garden Club tree (centre) included symbols of winter berries, fruit and vegetables.

Making a Will: a Loving Gift to Your Family

Lucy Castle

This article is contributed by West Ender Lucy Castle, Philanthropy Manager of Frimley Health Charity, which works on behalf of our local Surrey Heath hospital, Frimley Park and its associated sites. Lucy lives in Rose Meadow.

We know talking about wills isn't anyone's favourite topic, but creating one is honestly one of the kindest things you can do for your loved ones - giving your family clarity and comfort when they need it most.

If you pass away without a will in the UK, the law decides who gets what through "intestacy rules." Unfortunately these rigid rules often don't reflect what we'd actually want. Unmarried partners get nothing, stepchildren are left out, and sometimes distant relatives inherit instead of the people who matter most.

Having a proper will means you're in control. You decide who gets your treasured family photos, who'll care for the children, and how to share your home. It's such a relief knowing everything's sorted!

Many people also love including a gift to charity in their wills - a beautiful way to make a lasting difference.

Frimley Health Charity has partnered with Octopus Legacies to offer free will-writing using code FHCFREE. We'd be tremendously grateful if you'd consider a small charitable gift to help us continue delivering above and beyond for your local hospital community. This arrangement with Octopus expires at the end of February.

WEVS History Project

The WEVS History Project, our Project of the Year for 2025, has made good progress since its launch in February 2025. We have built a collection of more than 700 historic photographs, most already digitised with further images awaiting scanning. We also have about 60 print documents which have been scanned.

The Project team – Johan Schoeman, Savitri Kegge and I - are reviewing software which will enable us to make all the photos and documents searchable on the WEVS website. The aim is that, on the website, users will be able to click on a photograph to enlarge it and to read associated text; and search terms (such as an event, or the name of a person, a street or a building) can be entered to find all items that match the chosen criteria. We are aiming to launch this during 2026.

At the same time we want to continue adding to the collection of images and documents. We encourage residents and local organisations to send us any photographs they have of events, people or views in West End, from the early years of photography through to the present, and of course into the future as the months go by. They can be in any form: prints, slides or negatives, or digital images. Prints, negatives and slides will be digitised and the originals returned. The information we would like about each image (as far as possible) is title, photographer, date, description and any further information. Please contact us at: historyproject@wevs.org.uk to arrange delivery/ collection of photographs or documents.

By giving us these items donors are acknowledging that they may be used in public on our website or in displays, newsletters or other media.

WEVS is very grateful to all who have contributed to our collection of historic photos and documents. We aim to create an exciting and accessible archive of West End's past with your help!

The importance of writing it down

From time to time I am in personal conversations about earlier times in and around West End. My reaction usually includes urging the speakers to write it down, otherwise such memories will be lost forever and the opportunity to enrich the recorded history of West End, and indeed the speaker's own family, will be missed.

Do write down memories of your childhoods, and episodes in your life which may be of family or wider interest. Write dates and details on the back of photograph prints, or write notes on or about digital photos (most digital cameras have a facility for recording details of photos). Your relatives and friends will be interested, and if West End features in it WEVS' History Project team will be interested too. It is the memories and records of ordinary citizens that lie at the heart of local history.

Joy Thorn's memoir of the VE Day celebrations in 1945, published in WEVS Newsletter 207, Autumn 2025, is a good example. John Medhurst's family story told on pages 8-9 in this Newsletter is another example. These are included in the History Project collection.
